As Gregor struggles to come to terms with his new reality, he is met with a mixture of disgust, fear, and indifference from his family. His father tries to force him back into work, his mother faints at the sight of him, and his sister is the only one who shows him any compassion.

Through Gregor's transformation, Kafka explores themes of alienation, identity, and the human condition. "Metamorphosis" is a powerful and unforgettable work of literature that will stay with you long after you finish reading it.

The Author: Franz Kafka

Franz Kafka was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia (now the Czech Republic) in 1883. He was the son of a wealthy Jewish merchant and attended German-language schools. Kafka studied law at the University of Prague and worked as a lawyer for several years.

Kafka's writing is often characterized by its dark humor, existential themes, and surreal imagery. He is best known for his novels "The Trial," "The Castle," and "Metamorphosis." Kafka died of tuberculosis in 1924 at the age of 40.
